Kia ora! Nau mai, haere mai ki tēnei whare karakia
Greetings! Welcome, welcome to this house of prayer.

As the deer pants for the water,
so my soul longs after you.
You alone are my heart's desire
and I long to worship you.

*You alone are my strength, my shield,
to you alone may my spirit yield.
You alone are my heart's desire
and I long to worship you.*

I want you more than gold or silver,
only you can satisfy.
You alone are the real joy-giver
and the apple of my eye.

You're my friend and you are my brother,
even though you are the king.
I love you more than any other,
so much more than anything.

Nothing is lost on the breath of God,

nothing is lost for ever;
God's breath is love, and that love will remain,
holding the world for ever.
No feather too light, no hair too fine,
no flower too brief in its glory;
no drop in the ocean, no dust in the air,
but is counted and told in God's story.

Nothing is lost to the eyes of God,
nothing is lost for ever;
God sees with love and that love will remain,
holding the world for ever.

No journey too far, no distance too great,
no valley of darkness too blinding;
no creature too humble, no child too small for God to be seeking, and finding.

Nothing is lost to the heart of God,
nothing is lost for ever;
God's heart is love, and that love will remain,
holding the world for ever.
No impulse of love, no office of care,
no moment of life in its fulness;
no beginning too late, no ending too soon,
but is gathered and known in God's goodness.

Candlemas, Feb 2

The story of the presentation of Jesus in the Temple is told only by Luke. Luke's main interest is not in the rites of purification, nor in the presentation of the first-born to God. Rather, in the Temple, the centre of Jewish worship, obedience to the Law and the hopes expressed by the prophets find their fulfilment in Jesus. The coming of God's chosen one, however, will also bring division. Anna the prophetess reiterates the theme of the promise of God "to all who were looking for the redemption of Jerusalem".
